Construct a model of occupational choice. The model should keep track of different types of human capital and should be feasible to compute. Provide detail on how to estimate the model parameters.